

STEP 4: Calculate your financial need

Use the table below to calculate your financial need. This will tell you whether you have a surplus or shortfall based on the numbers you entered in this guide.

Total Resources (D)		_____
Total Tuition & College Fees (A)	-	_____
Total Additional Program Costs (B)	-	_____
Total Living Expenses (C)	-	_____
NEED	=	_____

Is your need a + or - amount?

If positive - congratulations! With your extra money, you may want to consider creating an emergency fund, opening a savings account, or investing in your future.

If negative:

- take a look at your expenses and see if there are ways you can reduce them (i.e. get a roommate, cancel cable bill, negotiate better cell phone rate plan, etc.)
- take a look at your resources and see if you can increase them (i.e. by getting a job, applying for financial aid, or seeking out government assistance programs. If your shortfall is large, you should strongly consider applying for a student loan if you are eligible.)

Money Matters Financial Planner

One of the biggest hurdles in gaining an education is cost. Your success at college depends on how ready you are academically and financially. Having a financial plan in place will give you peace of mind and better equip you to deal with any unexpected financial challenges that may arise throughout the school year.

Follow this step-by-step guide to get yourself financially prepared for the school year.

STEP 1: Calculate your fees

Visit nsc.ca/fees and choose your program from the list for a complete breakdown of tuition and fees.
